DEAR FOLKS:

USINESS took me to Scranton BPa., during the week of May 12-17, and while there I was fortunate in meeting forty-seven men who represent the IRON DIVI-SION of Wilson and Company-managers of branches and salesmen. It was during this week that the people of the Keystone State bubbled over with enthusiasm and wonderful welcome to the men of the IRON DIVISION OF PENNSYL-VANIA who had returned from the captains of the membership teams of the City Club met and reported at the Commercial Club it was disclosed that the captains of the membership teams of the city Club met and reported the teams of the city Club met and reported the teams of the city Club met and reported the teams of the city Club met and reported the teams of the city Club met and reported the teams of the city Club met and reported the teams of the city Club met and reported the teams of the city Club met and reported the teams of the city Club met and reported the teams of the city Club met and reported the teams of the city Club met and reported the teams of the city Club met and reported the teams of the city Club met and reported the teams of the city Club met and reported the teams of the city Club met and reported the teams of the city Club met and reported the teams of the city Club met and reported the teams of the city Club met and reported the teams of the city Club met and reported the teams of the city Club met and reported the teams of the city Club met and reported the teams of the city Club met and reported the teams of the city Club met and reported the teams of the city Club met and reported the teams of the city Club met and reported the teams of the city Club met and reported the teams of the city Club met and reported the teams of the city Club met and reported t

I wouldn't have missed this unexpected meeting of the Board of Governors:

W. L. Trenholm Abrams, Phil C. Seven men for anything. Heretofore my knowledge of the Wilson and Company organization has been confined largely to personal contact with the rank and file of workers in the Chicago and New York plants. It had not been my pleasure to meet sales representatives in a convention of their own. This convention of their own. This convention of the managers of branches and salesmen of Wilson and Company in the Northeastern District of Pennsylvania, had been planned to discuss ways and means to better promote the sale of the Wilson Certified food products such as the smoked meats, beined hams sausage and canned iruits, vegetables, and meats.

It was my privilege to sit in their meeting, and I am very glad I had official sources.

Did you ever hear before the ex-pression "Certified Confidence?" Do you appreciate what it means? How many friends have you got on your list in whom you have "certified confidence??"

Answering that question for your selves, you know what it means then when I tell you that this Northeastern Division of Pennsylvania branch workers and salesen, as well as the other divisions of salesmen in all sections of the country, HAVE "Certified Con-fidence" in Thomas E. Wilson and his food products.

The Chairman of the meeting

"With the splendid backing that our salespeople are getting from Mr. Wilson and his family of excrutives and his associate workers in the various plants, we must pull together and see to it that Wilson products may be found on sale on the shelves of every food merchant in our territory. Wilson products must be liberally distrib-uted among dealers so that the consumer will have no difficulty in buying them. We must develop and cultivate the trade of the small dealer. We must not overlook the fact that the small dealer is the large dealer of next year. Banded together as we are no power on earth can hold us back from making a place for our Company and ing a place for our Company and ourselves in the business world. We know that the policy of the the fact that our motto, "The Wilson Label Protects Your Table," insures a square deal for all, there is no reason why dealers everywhere should not carry a full line of Wilson & Company products, thus enabling us to establish a wonderful chain of dealers handling Certified foods from one end of the country to the other, and through these dealers establishing a splendid relationship between the consumers and our organizathe consumers and our organiza-tion. We have confidence in our Company and in its methods— we have confidence in ourselves, and with these three fundamental we cannot fail to build a business that will endure in honor and service forever."

The general consensus of opinion among the forty-seven represent-ing the IRON DIVISION of Wilson & Company in Northeast-ern Pennsylvania, is that it is an honor to be on the Wilson & Company pay roll, and that it gives them an opportunity to satisfy their own ambition in life. They say that they like to be identified with an organization which stands for idealism and CERTIFIED PRACTICE in busi-

One man, in speaking of Wilson & Company's Certified Boiled Hams, said:

"Boys, if we have any difficulty in persuading any dealer to buy Wilson & Company's Certified Boiled Hams from us, its our own fault, Why, do you know that we made a recent test of how this ham cuts up, and we discovered ham cuts up, and we discovered that there was only one ounce of waste in the whole ham. We not only certify as to quality but we certify to economy in use."

The pride that Wilson & Company workers feel in their organi ration hasn't a chance on earth of ever having a fall, because it is too genuine and too deep rooted and so entirely justified.

Sincerely yours, William C. Freeman 250 Fifth Ave., New York City.

It was my privilege to sit in their meeting, and I am very glad I had the opportunity, because these men have got it in their souls to promote the interests of their Chief, Thomas E. Wilson, who has put intelligence and integrity into food products, something that has given his name and his products a reputation which permits his sales organizations in all sections of the country to sell Wilson Certified Brands under their good name and quality, without necessitating salesmen to carry samples.
